How are you doing with your genealogical research this year? As I write this message I think of the many learning experiences I have had while tracking my family history, the wonderful people I have met and places I have visited. When we begin our genealogy, we wonder if we will ever learn enough research strategies to progress on our family lines. As time goes along and we continue our effort, we find we can gather more information about our own history. Each piece adds to the puzzle and personal enjoyment we all experience.

In many ways, the beginning of this endeavor as President of the Ohio Chapter Pal-Am is a similar experience for me. I am honored that you have elected me your President and I will do my best to serve and help to enhance the Palatines to America. We will have challenges to meet and we will do our best to meet them. With your strong support, the Chapter will continue to grow.

While attending the National Conference in Kingston, New York, I announced the 1999 Pal-Am National Conference here in Columbus, Ohio at the business meeting and at the banquet. Bob Rudy as Program Chairman and other Ohio chapter members are working diligently on the Conference and would appreciate any assistance from you. We need you!

Also, in June I was a guest at the Morehart/Alspach family reunion at the Wagnall Memorial Library in Lithopolis. Everyone was very interested in the Pal-Am library and in our society.

Just this past weekend, July 18th I had the privilege of presenting the Palatines to America, Resolution to Arta F. Johnson, Ph.D. She was so pleased with the Resolution and will enjoy reading it often. I encourage you to write to her or to send her a card. She shared several family pictures and stories with John Mangus, Jean Hall, Bob Rudy and myself. Don't forget our Fall Meeting on October 10th at Chemical Abstracts. I look forward to seeing many of you again and meeting many members for the first time.

MESSAGE CENTER

I have experienced wonderful results with little E-mailing I have done. I found some addresses in my Soule family name newsletter, and now correspond by E-mail with several cousins who are also Barrett cousins. It's great! One cousin sent me 24 pages of my Barrett line which included my Grandmothers name prior to her marriage. I'm hoping that E-mail corespondent can tell me who collected so much information, and their source.

I wonder whether E-mail addresses on the Web Talk page would be feasible. Have Palatine Heritage subscribers submit a list of German surnames they are researching (not queries) along with their E-mail address.

If you want to find out the location of a town in current day Germany, send an E-mail to geo@genealogy.net and send a carbon copy to yourself. In the Subject line, type GEO (that is capital GEO surrounded with two underlines) and, in the message portion, type the name of the place. This activates an automated system at the University of Giessen in Germany that will match any place that is in the current German Postal Code Book. In the reply, you will get any place that has that name (I recently found out that there are 24 places in Germany named Rohrbach) along with the county, provincial district (Regierungsbezirk) and the current day state in Germany. The message will also include the latitude/longitude of the place, the Postal Code, the population in 1989, the definition of 1:25,000 scale and 1:50,000 scale maps showing the place and a finding aid in the Euro-Atlas ... all free! When a place has become a part of a larger town, that will be shown.

Another neat thing I found, but this is on the Internet. It you would like to find out how common a name is in Germany or the general areas where that name is found (via the German telephone books), you can set your browser to <http://w3g.med.uni-giessen.de/~geneal/bin/teleinfo2.cgi> and type in the surname. You can choose between a "quick count" of how many German telephones there are in that name or you can request

"more detail" which will show you a distribution through the Postal Code Regions of this name, complete with a colored map of the Postal Code Regions and smaller zones within them. If you find an area of concentration of the name and want to dig deeper, you can click on the number of that region and it will break the distribution down further for you. You can continue that until you get as far as you want to go; I even got the name, address and phone number of a person with a rare name recently. Both of these capabilities are provided by Arthur.Teschler@uni-giessen.de

Committee Formed

A committee has been formed for the 1999 National Conference to be held in Columbus Ohio. Ed Naber has been appointed Conference Coordinator. He is being assisted by: John Mangus, Finance Chairman. Sophia Jean Hall, Registration Chairperson, Robert Rudy, Program Chairman, Dr. Terry Golden, Clara Harsh, Patrick Mooney, Gerald Miller, Jeannine Miller, Jack Quinn, Ann Scott, Ira Wm. Simons, Robert Strock, Ernie Thode, and Les Weber. Barbara Howison, Vendors Chairperson and Bob Tieman, Publicity Chairman.

The conference will be held at the Fawcett Center on The Ohio State Campus. Arrangements for speakers and tentative activity plans are in the making.

Passing Remarks

While attending the 1998 National Conference in Kingston, New York. Overheard a person telling a story to some Palatine members at our banquet table her experiences and some intriguing attractions in Germany. She told of a visit to the Gothic Cathedral in Cologne, a cruise down the scenic section of the "Vater Rhine." The cruise took them from just below Koblenz, to the Loreley. There were many old castles high on the hills, scenic grape vineyards and the charming towns along the river. But, the most comical part of her story was the burly female rest room attendants. Called by many as "Dragon Ladies."

In Europe you pay to use the facilities at many places, but in Germany they are impassioned about it. One tour director surmised that the attendants are probably all named Brunhilde. Rumor has it that they won't hesitate to lock you in the toilet if you cross them.

After a long motor coach ride to board a boat for the Rhine River Cruise most everyone headed for the restroom. The lady handed "Brunhilde" a mark and headed for the first toilet that became available. Brunhilde, stiff-armed her and went into the stall with a toilet brush. One of our German-speaking tour members told her that we were from the motor coach and they only had five minutes to spare and that it wasn't necessary to clean the toilet each time. But Brunhelde ruled - and we waited.

Well, I thought it was a funny story and thought everyone would enjoy reading about it.

We had a great time at the conference. The speakers were great, the food was great, and the facilities were great. What more can you say about a great weekend, except it was great to visit with friends old and new.

Letter to the Editor

A letter from Lois C. Byrem, Editor of Penn Pal, of the Pennsylvania Chapter, of the Palatines to America. This in response to an article on Emigration Ships on the Internet. Lois, said there is a book entitled Ship of Our Ancestors by Michael J. Anuta published by Genealogical Publishing House in Baltimore, Maryland, which has photos of scores of ships dating from the mid-19th century.

Lois, also stated that the ship SS Frankfurt, of the German Lloyd Company, which was on the Web Talk page in the May issue was pictured in the book on page 103. This might also be a source of information for other individuals looking for a ship their ancestors came over to America.

Many thanks to Lois, for the information. The Columbus Metropolitan Library, has the book in their collection.

Many thanks to the people above and the many volunteers who make the Palatines to America a vibrant organization

At least half of the above volunteers have served our library for three years or more. Many of them have also generously donated books, serials, maps and other materials to our rapidly growing collection.

In addition to the above individuals several have graciously expressed an interest and will be contacted as scheduling demands. Evenso, more volunteers are needed! Current needs include indexers, Saturday Hosts for the Fall and someone who reads some German to organize and file German-language clipping (Verticle File).

For more information or to volunteer, contact Librarian Ann Scott, mornings at 614-236-8371.
